calculations of the exposition managers in their space reservations. This seemed the prospect up to a few days ago, but an urgent telegram from Algar M. Wheeler, chief of the division of exhibits of the exposition, resolved the committee into a determination to take de-

Secured 11,000 Feet of Space.

The result of this quick trip to the exposition grounds, Secretary Clum says, has been entirely satisfactory, both from the committee's standpoint and that of the merchants who have been asked to provide the exhibits. After conferring with T. P. Southgate, a member of the board of governors of the exposition, invested with suprem authority in the matter of concessions, and Mr. Wheeler, the committee secured an option on 8,500 square feet of space in the Manufactures and Fine Arts building for the commercial ex-hibit, and 2,500 square feet for the prohibit, and 2,500 square feet for the proposed municipal exhibit. This space, he states, is in a choice part of the building, and that reserved for the municipal exhibit is adjacent to the commercial space.

While the committee went to Jamestown fully informed as to the amount for space that Washington merchants there was no certainty that the exposition managers would consent to an exension of time on the option. This extension was secured just as the committee had hoped, according to Secretary Clum, that for the commercial exhibit until the middle of November, and that for the municipal exhibit until some time in January. It is figured out that this will give the merchants ample time to arrange their proposed commercial exhibits, and also the District Commissioners to carry out their agreement to put up to Congress a suggestion that a suitable appropriation be granted for the municipal

To Appear Before Congress.

As to the Commissioners' part in formulating a plan to lay before Congress, nothing has been said since the ommittee of fifteen representing the local trade bodies called at the District building on Thursday to enlist official support. It is known, however, that the the Commissioners before the committees of Congress immediately following the opening of the coming session, in order to show that the movement has the indorsement of the business community at large. This suggestion will probably be made between now and the opening of Congress.

Discussing the prospects ahead of the Jamestown show, Secretary Clum warmed into enthusiasm, and his impression is that Washington should seize the opportunity to contribute an important part to its success. The location of the exposition grounds, he states, is ideal, with a full view of Hampton Roads, across to the big hotels on the opposite shore and a sweep of the ocean as far as the eye can reach. He refers particularly to the proposed naval display, in which 100 battleships, American and foreign, will take part, as perhaps the biggest drawing card of the show. This feature, he thinks, will attract visitors from all parts of the world.

Newspaper Support Enlisted.

In calling the meeting, it was the intention to enlist newspaper support in furthering the movement, and by invitation four edimovement, and by invitation four editorial representatives of the local papers responded to hear the views of Chazies J. Bell, James F. Oyster, and Thomas W. Smith. Each member of the conference was asked to give his view, and a number of plans were discussed, but the meeting being informal, no definite action was taken.

On next Friday evening a meeting between representatives of the three trade organizations, the Board of Trade, the Business Men's Association, and the Jobbers' and Shippers' Association will be held to form definite plans concerning the future of the objects involved in the Greater Washington movement. The sense of the meeting will be to develop what action the three bodies intend taking toward combining their interests in pushing the movement. As yet no place of meeting has been decided upon.

SWEET-SOUR APPLE A BURBANK FREAK

Wizard's Exhibit at Stanford

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., Oct. 80.—Students and faculty of Stanford before them and while you are talking. University were astounded when Luther give them a whiff or two of your bad Burbank, the plant wizard, exhibited an breath. It usually comes from food ferapple which was red and sweet on one side and yellow and sour on the other. You have it in the morning—that awful you have it in the morning—that awful sour, billious, bad breath. You can stop that at once by swallowing one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful gas and odor absorbers ever prepared.

Sometimes your meals will reveal themselves in your breath to those who talk with you. "You've had onions," or "You've been eating cabbage," and all of a sudden you belch in the face of your friend. Charcoal is a wonderful absorber of odors, as every one knows. That is why Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are so quick to stop all gases and odors of odorous foods, or gas from indigestion. Burbank was speaking on plant evolution. He said a certain difficult experiment might be achieved by infinite patience and constant work, but it would be much more difficult than mak-John L. your breath will be pure and fresh, and besides your food will taste so much better to you at your next meal. Just try it.

Charcoal does other wonderful things, too. It carries away from your stomach and intestines, all the impurities there massed together and which causes the bad breath. Charcoal is a purifier as well as an absorber.

Charcoal is now by far the best, most easy and mild laxative known. A whole boxful will do no harm; in fact, the more you take the better. Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made of pure willow charcoal and mixed with just a faint favor of honey to make them palatable for you, but not too sweet. You just chew them like candy. They are absolutely harmless.

Get a new, pure, sweet breath, freshen your stomach for your next meal, and keep the intestines in good working order. These two things are the secret of good health and long life. You can get all the charcoal lozenges. We want you to test these little wonder workers yourself before you buy them. So send us your full name and address for a free sample of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. Then after you have tried the sample, and been convinced, go to your druggist and get a 25c box of them. You'll feel better all over, more comfortable, and "cleaner" inside.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 60 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Directed and Managed by Charles A. Cyphers

View of Model Poultry Parm, Looking Southwest-Colony Brooders; 20,000 Chick Nursery Brooder; Picking Rouse; Ducklings in Poreground. tude to successfully manage and direct a poultry business on a large scale. If at all informed regarding the poultry industry, you are familiar with my name and work. As a designer and inventor of the most successful incubating and brooding apparatus, I have necessarily been in the foremost rank of investigaters in artificial poultry rearing. Thousands of breeders who are making money with poultry owe their success to my investigations and teachings. One-half a million copies of my book, "Incubation and its Natural Laws," have been sold. It is used as a text-book in nearly all of the Agricultural Colleges of the United States and Canada, and agricultural experiment stations where poultry classes are run. Every poultry man in the United States is already acquainted with me by reputation, other business interests are centered. Here at East Aurora, N. Y., the home of the Village Farms of the late C. J. Hamiln, I purchased 250 acres, and the Model Farm came into existence. By buying three adjoining farms, I was rble to control the water supply and secure just the lay of land I wanted, a long, gentle slope, bisected by slight ravines, which afford perfect natural drainage, assuring continued sweet, dry soil. With the added advantage of a good growing climate, we have an ideal location for a large and successful poultry farm. No matter how promising the future of a business may be, the first year or two are generally looked upon as a constructive rather than a profit-making period. In the case of the Model Farm'I have the business so well in hand that and knows what I have done for the poultry industry. The same successful business methods and that knowledge of artificial poultry raising that have enabled me to build up the largest business in the world in the manufacture of incubating and brooding apparatus will be employed in carrying to a highly profitable and successful issue the business of the Model Poultry Company. For several years I have been shaping my other business affairs so that I could give a great part of my time to the rearing of poultry on a large scale, to the building up of a large poultry business. With this end in view, the Model Poultry Company was organized late this spring, and a farm sife most desirable in every particular was found twelve miles from the Buffalo city line, in which latter city my and knows what I have done for the poultry indusmade. Title to the first farm was not secured until the middle of April. Local carpenters were busy on contracts, so that the only building we could get up quickly was a small brooding house, holding 3,000 chicks. By oprating the incubators in the house cellar and supplementing the nursery brooder with portable equipment, consisting of 65 colony brooders and 125 small colony houses, we had on September 1st, after a period covering only four and one-half months, over fourteen thousand growing chicks and over two thousand ducklings, and had already marketed fifteen hundred ducklings and twice as many broilers. From the chicks that were earliest hatched we will select some six thousand pullets for next season's layers. The receipts from the broilers and ducklings now going to market are already meeting the expenses of the poultry work, and as we shall soon be marketing large quantities of roasting chickens and of selected eggs, we shall within sixty days be making a handsome profit. We have now increased our winter brooding capacity to 25,000 chicks and shall erect growing houses of equal capacity. Laying houses for 2,000 head are now completed, the foundations for the remainder are already in and the frame work under way.

For the full second year I plan to raise over one hundred thousand broilers and roasting chickens and to carry from twenty to twenty-five thousand layers for market eggs. For the first full year's laying period of a hen's life an average profit of $1.25 per head can be made. Twenty thousand nead will stand to net a profit of $25,000. A hundred thousand broilers and roasters will net as much more.

The Model Poultry Company is incorporated un-thousand brollers and roasters will net as much more.

The Model Poultry Company is incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, is capitalized at $100,000-10,000 shares of a par value of $10 each, fully paid and non-assessable. I personally subscribed and paid for $25,000 worth of stock. A portion has been set aside and is being sold in small subscriptions to poultrymen who wish to ship their product to our selling agencies, and to profit by the educational value of the builetins which will be issued for the benefit of all stockholders who keep, or who contemplate keeping, poultry for pleasure or profit. We shall establish our own selling agencies, eliminating the middle man and securing the top price for the company and for the subscribers.

Model Poultry Company CHARLES A. CYPHERS, President, 66 Henry St., BUFFALO, N. Y. Please send me prospectus giving full details of the Model Poultry Company's plans and showing views of the company farm, poultry buildings, poultry, etc.

To properly finance the company and enable it to do a large and profitable business, a portion of its capital stock is offered to investors. Unlike the usual stock proposition, without any ground work in fact, the stock in the Model Poultry Company is being sold only at par, because every sition with ninety-nine chances of failure to one of success, nor a "get-richquick" scheme, inviting you to put your money in an enterprice which exists only on paper and promising imaginary profits. The Model Poultry Company has substance. The Model Farm is a real farm already in successful operation, and the progress made in less than five months shows that the company will make money for its subscribers. Here is an opportunity to secure a safe, conservative, and highly profitable investment, just as safe as the usual bond or mortgage that pays but 4 or 5 per cent. I will personally guarantee a 10 per cent annual dividend for two years, covering what is usually the constructive period of a new business, when investors do not expect dividends to be earned. I will do this because I know the business, and the profits are already in sight. The business interests of all stockholders and the business interests of myself must be identical.
